

The present invention provides a business deal information system. This system includes a business deal information reception unit that

- 5 receives business deal information containing a plurality of items, a registered member point file that manages the points held by each information provider, a confirmation information reception unit that receives information as to whether or not the contents of the business deal information received by the business deal information are accurate, and a point adder unit that adds a predetermined number of points to the number of points of the corresponding registered member in the registered member point file for each of the items confirmed to be accurate by the confirmation information reception unit.